

Gates Of Gore

NAVIGATION

- Home
- News
- Interviews
- Reviews
- DVD Reviews
- Links
- Forum
- WebsAlbum

UPDATE

04/17/04

Today I have added my review of the film OFF THE BEATEN PATH (http://www.freewebs.com/off the beaten path/).

ENTER

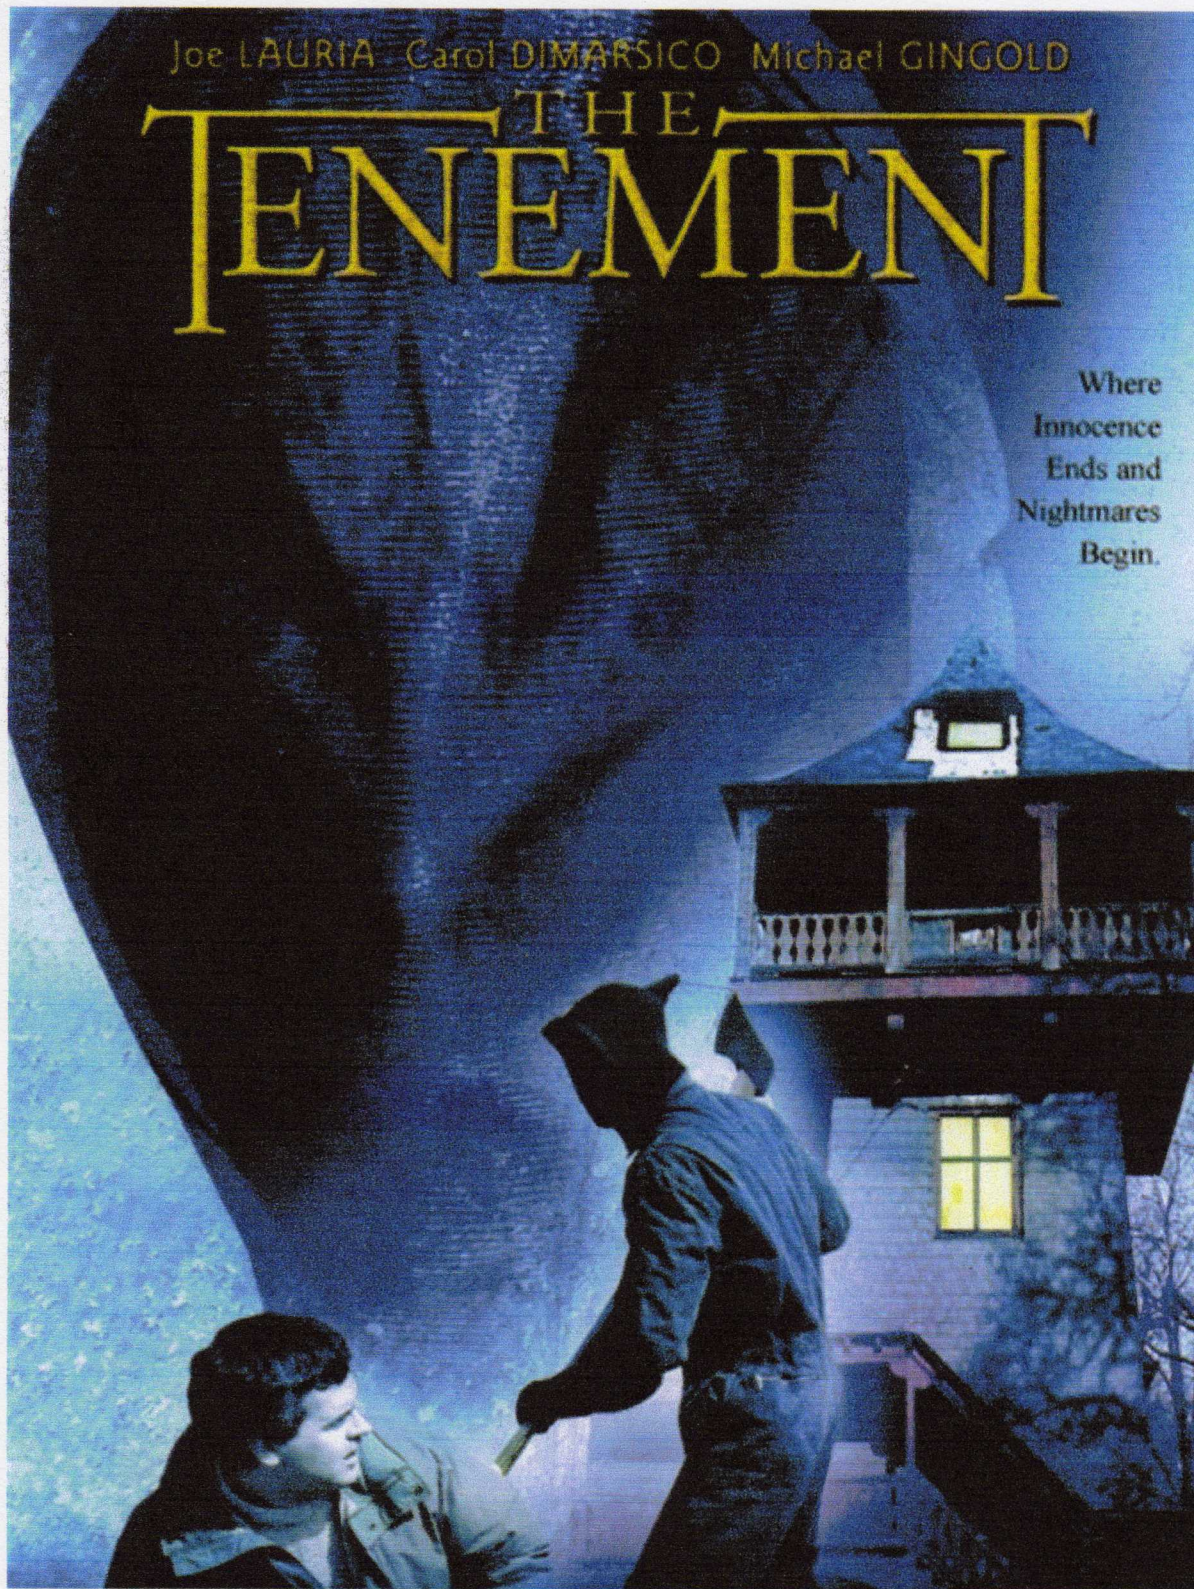

THE GATES OF GORE

THE TENEMENT

MENU

Home

DIRECTOR: Glen Baisley

CAST: Mike Gingold, Suzi Leigh, Mike Lane

I had the great pleasure of receiving this flick, THE TENEMENT, in the mail a couple of months ago to review. After having some major problems, most of them computer related, I finally got the chance to finish up what I expect to be one of the coolest indie horror flicks that I have seen recently.

The story revolves around an old tenement building that holds two decades worth of deadly secrets. What we see here is all the bloody mayhem that is within the walls of this building in a collection of short stories that are just downright creepy and violent.

I have been watching alot of indie horror flicks as of late and THE TENEMENT is just one of those films that once you watch it, you can't wait to see what happens next.

The acting is quite good in this low budget fare with Mike Gingold playing a sleazy B-Movie director and Suzi Leigh (AKA Kelli Summers), who you may all know as one of the Seduction Cinema girls, as one of the B-Movie actresses, who in one of the coolest scenes, gets nailed to a cross. I really do have to say that it is a great scene. Not only that, but I have to also say that Mike Lane is one of the funniest actors that I have seen recently. His character of Jimmy, who thinks he's turning into a werewolf, was both funny and brutal. I am looking forward to seeing even more of his flicks.

I also want to mention that this film has some very cool gore scenes. I have seen some films recently that were just so cheesy and unbelievable to watch. THE TENEMENT is way different in every aspect that a b-movie should be.

Glen Baisley just kicks major ass and I am looking forward to seeing lots more flicks from this awesome director.

MY RATING: 8/10

| |

This site built and hosted for free by FreeWebs.com. Click here to get your own free website.